Census Data

Some of the data used in this profile is taken from the 2011 Census; where this is the case, this is clearly labelled. Though this data is from several years ago, the breadth and volume of information the Census collects means it remains a valuable source of data and a reasonable indication of current trends.

Additionally, the boundaries of Abbotts Ann were redrawn by the Local Government Boundary Commission for England (LGBCE) review in 2017, meaning that the then north-east of the parish (around Burghclere Down) became part of neighbouring Andover. At the Census, this area represented a sizable portion of Abbotts Ann's population. As such, this information has been included on a 'best fit' basis, it's not an exact representation of Abbotts Ann but provides as good an indication as is currently feasible.

Deprivation

The English Index of Multiple Deprivation 2019 is designed to identify areas where communities lack resources and are in need. To do this, seven factors are considered, which are:

- income deprivation;
- employment deprivation;
- education, skills and training deprivation;
- health deprivation and disability;
- crime;
- barriers to housing and services;
- living environment deprivation.

Areas are scored on each of these factors, and ranked nationally from least deprived to most deprived.

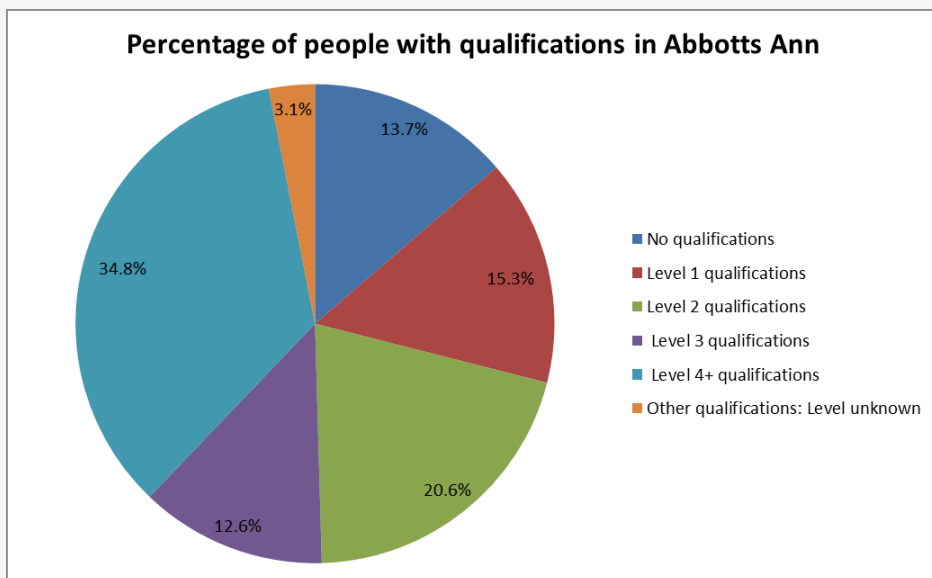

This map shows the deprivation scores for parish of Abbotts Ann against all areas in Test Valley. Of 32,844 areas ranked across the country, the north of Abbotts Ann (as seen in dark green on the map) ranks 30,723th, this puts it in the 10% of least deprived areas in the country. The remainder of the parish ranks 23,229th, placing this area in the top 30% of least deprived areas in the country.

More specifically, all of Abbotts Ann ranks in the top 10% of most deprived areas when it comes to physical proximity of local services.
